The CLERK. JOSEPH G. CANNON, of Illinois, has received 198 votes; JOHN S. WILLIAMS, of Mississippi, 167 votes. JOSEPH G. CANNON, having received a majority of the votes cast, is duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives for the Fifty-eighth Congress. [Loud applause.] Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi and Mr. GROSVENOR of Ohio are named as a committee to present the Speaker-elect to the House.

After a pause Mr. CANNON appeared at the main entrance of the Hall, accompanied by Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi and Mr. GROSVENOR, who conducted him to the chair amid loud applause.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Gentlemen of the House of Representatives, it is always a high honor to present a Speaker—any Speaker—to any American House of Representatives—the greatest parliamentary body on the face of the earth. It is especially an honor to present to this particular House of Representatives this particular Speaker. Of him I think the majority can well say that they have selected their best type, and I am satisfied that the minority will receive, under his administration, a full measure of fairness and impartiality. [Applause.] I have the honor to present your Speaker, Hon. JOSEPH G. CANNON, of Illinois. [Renewed applause.]

The SPEAKER. Gentlemen, Members of the House: I appreciate the honor you confer in choosing me as the presiding officer of the House. After twenty-eight years' service in the House such an expression of your confidence touches me profoundly. I thank you.

In the performance of the duties of the office I bring to the service a sincere desire to acquit myself with courtesy, efficiency, and fairness. If I err, it will be an error of the head, not of the heart. The contests on the floor touching policies that abound in partisanship will be spirited and earnest. The majority determines.

I am quite sure that in the consideration of the people's business, however sharp may be our differences, we will not forget that courtesy and demeanor which should always obtain between manly opponents who honestly differ. In the performance of the duties of Speaker I bespeak the kindly cooperation of each Member of the House. [Loud applause.]

I am ready to take the oath of office.

The oath of office prescribed by law was then administered by Mr. BINGHAM.

SWEARING IN OF MEMBERS.

The SPEAKER then proceeded to administer to the Members in attendance the oath of office.

The Members presented themselves as their names were called by States, and took, respectively, the oath of office provided by the law.

ELECTION OF CLERK AND OTHER OFFICERS.

Mr. HEPBURN. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That Alexander McDowell, of the State of Pennsylvania, be, and he is hereby, chosen Clerk of the House of Representatives;

That Henry Casson, of the State of Wisconsin, be, and he is hereby, chosen Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives;

That Frank B. Lyon, of the State of New York, be, and he is hereby, chosen Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives;

That Joseph C. McElroy, of the State of Ohio, be, and he is hereby, chosen Postmaster of the House of Representatives;

That Henry N. Couden, of the State of Michigan, be, and he is hereby, chosen Chaplain of the House of Representatives.

Mr. HAY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following as a substitute to the resolution:

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That Charles A. Edwards, of Texas, be elected Clerk of the House of Representatives;

That E. V. Brookshire, of Indiana, be elected Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives;

That A. J. Julian, of Georgia, be elected Doorkeeper of the House of Representatives;

That James K. Jackson, of Alabama, be elected Postmaster of the House of Representatives;

That E. B. Bagby, of Virginia, be elected Chaplain of the House of Representatives.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the substitute offered by the gentleman from Virginia.

The question was taken, and the substitute was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The question now recurs on the resolution offered by the gentleman from Iowa.

The question was taken, and the resolution agreed to.

SWEARING IN OF OFFICERS-ELECT.

The SPEAKER. The gentlemen named in the resolution just agreed to will come forward and take the oath of office.

The oath of office was then administered by the Speaker to the officers-elect of the House.

MEMBERS-ELECT FROM THE SIXTEENTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF OHIO AND THE FOURTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT OF SOUTH CAROLINA.

Mr. DICK. Mr. Speaker, at a special election held in the Sixteenth district of Ohio on November 3, 1903, Mr. C. L. Weems was elected by a plurality exceeding fifty-eight hundred, to succeed Hon. J. J. Gill, resigned. His certificate of election has not been received, but I ask unanimous consent of the House that he be now sworn in as a Member of this Congress.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Ohio asks unanimous consent that Mr. Weems, of the State of Ohio, be permitted to take the oath as a Member of this House. Is there objection?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that I understand there is no contest in that district and no doubt as to the election of Mr. Weems. There will, therefore, be no objection on this side.

The SPEAKER. There is no objection, and the gentleman will please come forward and take the oath.

The oath of office was then administered by the Speaker to the Member-elect.

Mr. FINLEY. Mr. Speaker, at the general election held last year, Hon. Joseph L. Johnson was elected a Representative from South Carolina to represent the Fourth Congressional district of that State. In some way his certificate has failed to reach the Clerk. There is no question as to his election. There is no contest; and I therefore ask unanimous consent of the House that my colleague, Mr. Johnson, be permitted to take the oath of office.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from South Carolina asks unanimous consent that Mr. Johnson, of South Carolina, be permitted to take the oath of office as a member of this House. Is there objection?

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman if the gentleman referred to was elected a year ago?

Mr. FINLEY. He was.

Mr. PAYNE. At the regular election?

Mr. FINLEY. Yes; but in some way his certificate has failed to come.

Mr. PAYNE. I hope there will be no objection.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection, and the gentleman will please step forward and take the oath.

The oath of office was then administered by the Speaker to the Member-elect.

NOTIFICATION OF THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

CANON, a Representative from the State of Illinois, as Speaker, and ALEXANDER McDOWELL, a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania, as Clerk of the House of Representatives of the Fifty-eighth Congress.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution. The resolution was agreed to.

NOTIFICATION OF THE SENATE.

Mr. BURTON. Mr. Speaker, I move the adoption of the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

CANON, a Representative from the State of Illinois, has been elected Speaker; that ALEXANDER McDOWELL, a citizen of the State of Pennsylvania, has been elected Clerk, and that the House is ready for business.

The resolution was agreed to.

COMMITTEE TO NOTIFY THE PRESIDENT.

Mr. TAWNEY. Mr. Speaker, I offer the resolution which I send to the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed by the Speaker on the part of the House of Representatives, to join the committee on the part of the Senate to wait on the President of the United States and notify him that a quorum of the two Houses has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the resolution. The resolution was agreed to; and the Speaker appointed as such committee on the part of the House Mr. TAWNEY, Mr. CAPRON, and Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi.

RULES OF THE HOUSE.

Mr. DALZELL. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following resolution: The Clerk read as follows:

Resolved, That the rules of the House of Representatives of the Fifty-seventh Congress be adopted as the rules of the House of Representatives of the Fifty-eighth Congress, including the standing orders of March 8 and March 14, 1900 (relating to consideration of pension and claim bills on Fridays), which are hereby continued in force during this Fifty-eighth Congress; and with following addition:

That the Select Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions is hereby constituted a standing committee, to consist of fifteen Members, and having the same jurisdiction which appertained to the said select committee in the Fifty-seventh Congress.

Mr. DALZELL. Mr. Speaker, just a word of explanation. Those Members of this House who have been Members of previous Houses will recollect that for many years it has been the practice to have a session on Friday night for the consideration of pension bills.

During the last Congress two orders were adopted changing the practice, so that we had the consideration of private pension bills on Fridays in the daytime, alternately with claim bills. The purpose of this resolution, if adopted, will be to preserve those two orders during the life of the Fifty-eighth Congress.

The only change suggested in the rules is a change in the number of the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions, and making that committee a standing committee instead of a select committee.

I am now ready to ask for a vote, unless the gentleman from Mississippi wishes to say something.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Pennsylvania yield to the gentleman from Mississippi?

Mr. DALZELL. I yield to the gentleman. How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Oh, three or four or five minutes.

Mr. DALZELL. I yield five minutes.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Mr. Speaker, it goes without saying that we on this side of the House have a very great number of objections to the rules of the House, and for that reason we shall demand the yeas and nays upon the motion which the gentleman has submitted. I want to say here, however, for the purpose of calling the attention of the Republican Members of the House to it, that we think in all fairness—and we hope that you of the majority will recognize that fact after a while—that the Democracy, the minority in the House, ought to have a larger representation upon certain important committees, where a reduction took place at the beginning of the last Congress. That reduction was made because, as the Speaker stated, the Republican party had gained so much and the Democratic party had lost so much that he could not well make his assignments go around amongst his party followers without a decrease of Democratic membership and a change of the proportion which the two parties had upon these committees. Now we have reinstated ourselves as far as those losses are concerned, and I want to express the hope and, I may add, the confidence that the Republican party will have the fairness, at a proper time, to cause an increased membership of one Democrat each upon the Committee on Ways and Means, the Committee on Appropriations, and these other important committees where a reduction took place.

With that, Mr. Speaker, I shall call for the yeas and nays upon the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Pennsylvania moves the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Speaker—

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman yield?

Mr. DALZELL. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. DE ARMOND. I would like to make a few remarks on the resolution.

Mr. DALZELL. How much time does the gentleman want?

Mr. DE ARMOND. Only a few minutes—five minutes.

Mr. DALZELL. I yield five minutes to the gentleman.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Mr. Speaker, I think it would be ample for the purposes of this extra session, and that it would be sufficient action for the House at this time, to adopt the rules for the extra session, and not adopt rules that will stand during the entire Congress.

Those of us who have been here a little while know, and those who have not been here will soon learn, that under the code of rules of the last Congress, if adopted, times will come, and come often, when it will be in the power of a few men in the House to prevent action which a majority of the Members would really like to take, and when that is done, in order to accomplish that which a majority of the Members wish to have done it will be necessary repeatedly to override the rules; and failing to do that, the House will be unable to express its real judgment upon many important questions. It seems to me that it would be enough to test and try these rules in this extraordinary session. The gentlemen upon the other side have the votes to adopt them without change at any time they see fit, and it seems to me that in justice to the majority, in justice to the minority, in justice to the country, these rules ought to be tested and tried in a temporary way in the extraordinary session. Then if the majority are satisfied to adopt them as they are it is within the power of that majority so to adopt them.

If the experience of the House in this extraordinary session should lead the thoughtful, independent men of the majority, after consideration of the matter, to the conclusion that these rules are too drastic and too arbitrary, it will then be in their power, before their hands are tied, to have such changes made as in their judgment ought to be made, and give the House and the membership of the House some opportunity to exercise here, in a free, independent, and untrammelled way, the rights which are theirs and to perform the duties which are theirs also.

Another objection which I have to the adoption of these rules out of hand, now and for the entire Congress, is that they are totally unfair to the minority in the assignment of membership upon the various committees. Any gentleman looking over the roll of the House, and seeing how large, or rather how small, is the majority, must, in fairness and justice, say that not only upon the important committees, but upon all the committees of the House, this side ought to have a larger representation than it had in the last Congress.

It is within the power of the majority, of course, to deny us that representation. If we are denied that representation a wrong will be done us individually and a wrong will be done our constituents at the outset of the proceedings of this Congress, a wrong that will not inure to the benefit of any party or of the country at large. It is conducive to good legislation, to thoughtful consideration of measures, to a proper disposition of things which will come before committees and later before the House, that there be a reasonably fair distribution of the Members upon committees, in proportion to the membership upon the respective sides of the House. Some of the great committees of the last House had a membership of seventeen, eleven Republicans and six Democrats. There is no justice and no fairness in such disproportion. It does not give us the representation which we ought to have.

We know very well that we have no power whatever to change or modify in any degree the will of the majority; but now, at the outset—before there is anything done—I wish to say to those who have the good fortune to be new to this House that the time will come, and it will come repeatedly, when, if these rules are adopted without consideration and blindly, individual members, and many of them, will regret their hasty action.

I wish to say also, as a Member of the House upon this side, that it is not justice to us nor justice to the people who sent us here, it is not fair to the people of the country, it is not for good legislation, it is not wise and patriotic action, to limit us in our membership in committees—great and small alike—to the small portion of power which we had in the Fifty-seventh Congress. It will be better for your own legislation, it will be more satisfactory in results, it will be better for us and better for the country, to give us a larger committee membership. That is all I desire to say. [Applause on the Democratic side.]

Mr. DALZELL. Mr. Speaker, so far as the increased representation of the Democratic party on the committees is concerned, I just wish to say a word. That can not be disposed of now. If the claim upon the other side shall have merit, I have no doubt that it will be recognized and can be rectified later. So far as confining the use of the rules, experimentally, to the extra session is concerned, the gentleman from Missouri knows, as well as the rest of us, that these have been the rules of every Republican Congress since the Fifty-first Congress and substantially the rules of the Fifty-second and Fifty-third Democratic Congresses. I now ask for the previous question.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Will the gentleman allow me to ask him a question?

Mr. DALZELL. Certainly.

Mr. DE ARMOND. How, if we are to have a larger membership, can the wrong be righted or the error be rectified after the committees are made up?

Mr. DALZELL. There is no question of making up the committees involved in this. It involves the adoption of rules for the House, and the committees will be made up later on.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Why not omit the number of Members on the committees?

Mr. DALZELL. That amendment can be made at any time.

Mr. DE ARMOND. Why not leave the matter open, then?

Mr. DALZELL. We want the House organized, and we want it organized with rules to go by. I ask for the previous question.

The question was taken on ordering the previous question; and the Speaker announced that the ayes seemed to have it.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Division.

The House divided; and there were—ayes 176, noes 163.

So the previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question now is upon the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. WILLIAMS of Mississippi. Upon that, Mr. Speaker, I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 192, nays 168, not voting 24, as follows:

TRADE RELATIONS WITH CUBA.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, on motion of Mr. CULLOM, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I have convened the Congress that it may consider the legislation necessary to put into operation the commercial treaty with Cuba, which was ratified by the Senate at its last session, and subsequently by the Cuban Government. I deem such legislation demanded not only by our interest, but by our honor. We can not with propriety abandon the course upon which we have so wisely embarked. When the acceptance of the Platt amendment was required from Cuba by the action of the Congress of the United States, this Government thereby definitely committed itself to the policy of treating Cuba as occupying a unique position as regards this country. It was provided that when the island became a free and independent republic she should stand in such close relations with us as in certain respects to come within our system of international policy; and it necessarily followed that she must also to a certain degree become included within the lines of our economic policy. Situated as Cuba is, it would not be possible for this country to permit the strategic abuse of the island by any foreign military power. It is for this reason that certain limitations have been imposed upon her financial policy, and that naval stations have been conceded by her to the United States. The negotiations as to the details of these naval stations are on the eve of completion. They are so situated as to prevent any idea that there is the intention ever to use them against Cuba, or otherwise than for the protection of Cuba from the assaults of foreign foes, and for the better safeguarding of American interests in the waters south of us.

These interests have been largely increased by the consequences of the war with Spain, and will be still further increased by the building of the isthmian canal. They are both military and economic. The granting to us by Cuba of the naval stations above alluded to is of the utmost importance from a military standpoint, and is proof of the good faith with which Cuba is treating us. Cuba has made great progress since her independence was established. She has advanced steadily in every way. She already stands high among her sister republics of the New World. She is loyally observing her obligations to us; and she is entitled to like treatment by us.

The treaty submitted to you for approval secures to the United States economic advantages as great as those given to Cuba. Not an American interest is sacrificed. By the treaty a large Cuban market is secured to our producers. It is a market which lies at our doors, which is already large, which is capable of great expansion, and which is especially important to the development of our export trade. It would be indeed shortsighted for us to refuse to take advantage of such an opportunity, and to force Cuba into making arrangements with other countries to our disadvantage.

This reciprocity treaty stands by itself. It is demanded on considerations of broad national policy as well as by our economic interest. It will do harm to no industry. It will benefit many industries. It is in the interest of our people as a whole, both because of its importance from the broad standpoint of international policy, and because economically it intimately concerns us to develop and secure the rich Cuban market for our farmers, artisans, merchants, and manufacturers. Finally, it is desirable as a guaranty of the good faith of our Nation towards her young sister Republic to the south, whose welfare must ever be closely bound with ours. We gave her liberty. We are knit to her by the memories of the blood and the courage of our soldiers who fought for her in war; by the memories of the wisdom and integrity of our administrators who served her in peace and who started her so well on the difficult path of self-government. We must help her onward and upward; and in helping her we shall help ourselves.

The foregoing considerations caused the negotiation of the treaty with Cuba and its ratification by the Senate. They now with equal force support the legislation by the Congress which by the terms of the treaty is necessary to render it operative. A failure to enact such legislation would come perilously near a repudiation of the pledged faith of the Nation.

I transmit herewith the treaty, as amended by the Senate and ratified by the Cuban Government.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WHITE HOUSE, November 10, 1903.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States; which was read, and, on motion of Mr. CULLOM, referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and ordered to be printed:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

It being required by the resolution of the Senate of March 19, 1903, that the approval of Congress shall be given to the reciprocal commercial convention between the United States and Cuba, signed December 11, 1902, before the same shall take effect, I transmit herewith the text of the said convention as amended by the Senate.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WHITE HOUSE, November 10, 1903.

Mr. ALLISON. I move that the Senate adjourn.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 12 o'clock and 15 minutes p. m.) the Senate adjourned until to-morrow, Wednesday, November 11, 1903, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TUESDAY, November 10, 1903.

The House met at 12 o'clock m., and was called to order by the Speaker.

The Chaplain of the House, Rev. HENRY N. COUDEN, D. D., offered the following prayer:

Our Father, who art in heaven, realizing as we do the force of that universal law, "to whom much has been given, of him much will be required," we most fervently pray for each Member of this representative body that he may feel deeply the responsibility resting upon him; for the Speaker who has been selected to preside over its deliberations, that he may see clearly, act wisely, and rule with justness and equity, that the history of the Fifty-eighth Congress may be worthy of American statesmen; worthy, therefore, of our great nation, and may redound to Thy glory, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Journal of yesterday's proceedings was read, corrected, and approved.
